The International Platform of Insects for Food and Feed (IPIFF), together with the Danish Insect Network (DIN) cordially invite you to join our one-day workshop on good hygiene practices in insect production, taking place in Copenhagen on the 27th of May.

The objective of this workshop is to present the latest EU regulatory developments that are relevant to the activities of insect producers, but also to offer a succinct introduction to the latest IPIFF publication, the Guide on Good Hygiene Practices. We also aim at consolidating the European network of professionals from the insect sector by bringing together high-level officials from Brussels, relevant actors from the agri-food chain and academia.

We would be delighted to welcome you from 12 PM when we will organise a lunch before the opening of the event. For your convenience, you will find as accompanying document the last version of the programme.

Please note that the early bird registration deadline has passed. All the participants registering after the 14th of May are expected to pay 500 €/person - covering all the organisational expenses, as well as on-site lunch and dinner at a special restaurant in Copenhagen.

The registration deadline is Monday, the 20th of May. If you wish to join us in Copenhagen, you may still register by filling in the registration form.

We look forward to having you with us at our conference!

Yours sincerely,

The IPIFF Secretariat
