Brussels, 4th of October 2019

The International Platform of Insects for Food and Feed (IPIFF) cordially invites you to join our one-day international workshop, entitled 'Unleashing the Circularity Potential of the European Insect Sector through Research and Innovation', taking place in Brussels on the 3rd of December.

The objective of this workshop is to provide an updated overview of the numerous possibilities opened by the future framework of the Horizon Europe Research and Innovation Programme, compatible with the potential and needs of the insect production sector. The IPIFF Secretariat will also formally launch its Contribution Paper on Research, developed as a response to the public consultation on the Co-design of the Horizon Europe Programme organised by the European Commission.

Our umbrella organisation intends to bring together insect producers, academia, as well as policymakers - in order to facilitate a multistakeholder discussion on the unique potential of the European insect sector and its contribution to numerous European and global challenges. We also aim at consolidating the European network of professionals from the insect sector by bringing together high-level officials from Brussels, relevant actors from the agri-food chain and academia.

Our special early bird participation fee is 250 €/person. This sum covers all the organisational expenses, as well as the opening dinner - taking place on the 2nd of December. In addition, Universities and researchers have the possibility to present one research poster - summarising projects that are connected to the research priorities defined by IPIFF in its Contribution Paper. We will only be able to confirm your participation if the payment will be transferred maximum 7 working days after the confirmation of the registration.

Register now and join us for future-oriented discussions on the 3rd of December.

We look forward to welcoming you in Brussels soon!

Yours sincerely,
The IPIFF Secretariat
